Wedding of Miss Catherine Edwards And Dr. Thomas E. Weiss, In New Orleans Last Thursday of Local Interest

Thursday morning, June 29, at 10 o'clock in St. Rita's Church Miss Catherine Torres Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Wiltz Edwards of New Orleans and the late Mr. Edwards of Bay St. Louis and Gulfport, Miss., became the bride of Dr. Thomas E. Weiss, of the late Dr. Weiss of Baton Rouge, La. The Rev. Msgr. William J. Castel performed the ceremony before the altar, which was banked with white peonies and gladioli. On either side of the altar were tall baskets filled with similar white blooms.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Dr. Edwin Wiltz Edwards, Jr., wore a gown of white Chantilly lace and nylon tulle. The tight-fitting lace bodice of the dress was fashioned with a high neckline having a tulle yoke, edged with appliques of lace, and long lace sleeves ending in points. The bouffant skirt was made with alternating panels of lace and tulle, and fell into a long train. Her finger-length veil of illusion was held to her head by a pleated tulle cap trimmed to the back with a cluster of lilies of the valley. She carried a cascade bouquet of lilies of the valley and fleur d'amour.

The bride and her matron of honor and only attendant, her sister-in-law, Mrs. Edwin Wiltz Edwards, Jr., who wore a mauve nylon marquisette dress with the bodice cut in a V-neckline and the full skirt trimmed to one side with a draped effect of purple marquisette, extended to the hemline. She wore on her head a coronet of purple velvet and mauve illusion veiling and carried a bouquet of purple stock and asters.

Ann Mestayer Severely Cut and Bruised In Fall From Boat

Friday afternoon, about 5:00 o'clock, Beverly Hodges, Ann Marie Gou dolo, and Ann Mestayer were in a speed boat with Jane Bruce on an aquaplane out in the channel. Ann Mestayer fell overboard and the speedboat propeller ran over her severely cutting her face and chest. Beverly, who was driving the boat, saw her feet in the air as if she were diving into the water, and as soon as she realized what had happened turned off the motor and jumped into the water after her. Even though suffering from severe shock, Ann, who is sixteen years old, swam about ten feet and the girls pulled her into the boat.

As the girls headed shoreward, Beverly's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hadges, were on the beach, and the girls called to them for help and asked them to secure a doctor, so no time was lost in obtaining medical aid. She was taken to King's Daughters Hospital here where she was in the operating room for three and one-half hours. Her nose was broken, necessitating the removal of a bone near the sinus and there were deep gashes on her head and face. She had a cut palm, two broken teeth and two lower teeth missing, a very deep cut on her chin and lip, and through it all did not lose consciousness. Ann said she saw a pool of blood in the water but did not think it was her own.

On Tuesday, Ann was taken to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Mestayer, on Ramoneda St. The bandages were removed and though her face and lip were swollen and uncomfortable she suffered no pain. She wanted to go to the Yacht Club Tuesday but her doctor thought she should wait until Thursday.

Ann and her family are very grateful that she escaped death so miraculously and even the girls feel that they were given superhuman strength to pull her aboard while out in deep water.

HITS SEGREGATION RULINGS BY COURT

Action Called Real Threat to Nation

McComb, Miss. "Washington, like the rest of the United States, is jittery over the Korean war situation," Representative John B. Williams told a crowd gathered in Quint State park near McComb Tuesday morning.

"But the most real and menacing threat hanging today over the United States is not the military situation in Korea or elsewhere," Representative Williams continued. "The real threat to our security arises from the alien ideas that have been introduced into the United States and which are causing so much international confusion and concern in America."

The Raymond congressman went on to tell his audience that the Southern Negro was being used as a "crowbar" by those who foster the "alien ideas and ideals" of which he spoke. He continued to castigates the Supreme Court for its recent decisions regarding segregation of the races.

"We can meet the military threat to our security from Russia or any other country or the whole world, if need be," Representative Williams said. "We can meet that military threat because we in America have always been able to take care of ourselves, and we can do so by our own strength and force, the atomic bomb as a reserve weapon, and our production potential."

But we cannot meet the threat from those alien ideas so readily. They are our greatest enemy."

Representative Williams identified himself conclusively with the States' Rights Democrats movement and paid high tribute to the principles and platform of the group, which he said was organized in Jackson, Miss., only a few years ago.

Representatives of Farm And Home Board To Meet With Veterans

An important meeting of veterans who have purchased farms or homes through the Veterans' Farm and Home Board will be held at the K of C Hall at 7:00 a.m., July 14, 1950.

Representatives of the Veterans' Farm and Home Board office in Jackson, as well as local veterans affairs leaders, will take part in the meeting which has been called to explain the details of a plan of group life insurance which is being made available to veterans who have financed their homes or farms through the state agency.

The insurance plan is optional to the veterans but the state agency has obtained an exceptionally low rate of 50 cents per thousand dollars of insurance per month, and has also worked out a plan whereby the insurance can be carried without increasing present mortgage loan payments.

Mr. B. B. Allen, Indianapolis, chairman of the state Board, has urged all veterans who have purchases through the state to take advantage of the plan.

"There have been several tragic instances where widows and orphans of veterans have been confronted with a heavy burden in keeping their homes after the death of the husband and father," Mr. Allen said.

"In an effort to avoid such situations," he continued, "the Veterans' Farm and Home Board has arranged to provide a plan of group life insurance which will, without increasing present payments, pay in full the remaining balance on loan contracts, in the event of death of the breadwinner, leave the home free of a mortgage, and provide an extra $1,000 for loved ones."

The plan will protect the homes of many veterans in impaired health who could not possibly qualify for regular insurance. The extraordinary savings in the cost of this insurance, as well as broader coverage, are made possible by collective purchasing."

He had been looking for his home since Friday. After he had located the home, he told his parents, they had accepted a ride in New Orleans from two men who would not let them out of the car until they arrived in Bay St. Louis. STAGGERING 783 US DEATH TOLL SETS NEW RECORD

The nation's holiday toll of accidental deaths reached a new all-time high of 783 during the four day Independence Day weekend. The previous record of 761 was set in 1936.

Traffic accidents in 47 states and the District of Columbia claimed 482 of the total number of persons killed. Only Delaware had an unblemished record.

In addition 178 lives were lost by drowning and 122 died in miscellaneous accidents of various kinds. Fireworks, once the major cause of Independence Day deaths, claimed only one victim in South Dakota.

The count of fatalities was limited to those occurring in activities related to the holiday celebration. They did not include suicides or other violent deaths that had no holiday connection. The terrific number of deaths from traffic mishaps was called "but-lady" by the president of the National Safety Council which had predicted that only 385 would die in this fashion. The average number of deaths from traffic accidents was 1.9 per minute, or one every eight minutes, was counted from 6 p.m. Friday (local times) to midnight Tuesday.

Ned H. Dearborn, head of the safety council, said, "the casualty list for the 'peaceful' celebration of the Fourth of July holiday on the home front makes America's part in the Korean war for the same period look like a Sunday school picnic."

"There is no rhyme or reason to this butchery and it couldn't happen if the people once made up their minds it must not happen."

Years ago fireworks took a terrific toll every Fourth of July until public opinion demanded that it stop. Now traffic is taking an even more hideous toll but so far public opinion seems to say "nothing can be done about it," Dearborn said.

He added that traffic deaths "will come down in a hurry" only when the average American begins to realize "that this slaughter has gone far enough and that he is going to stop his part in it."

WHAT'S WRONG WITH BAY ST. LOUIS?

Several Sundays ago, the writer and some friends went for an automobile trip down the Coast line as far as Biloxi and what we saw in the way of building and improvement, both private and municipal and tourist trade, left us practically speechless, and we could but wonder what has happened or is happening to our own Bay St. Louis. Why has our city administration not done something to bring visitors to our city?

It seems that instead of trying to increase this tourist trade, which is undoubtedly our main source of income, they have, by their apparent indifference to the situation, caused it to bypass us in favor of other Coast towns where officials are a little more broadminded and willing to cooperate with the citizens in giving the tourists what they want in the way of entertainment, which is the only way a resort town can hope to be successful. Would tourists go through Bay St. Louis and ride many miles further if they could get what they want here? Of course, they would not. Then why not give them what they want and let Bay St. Louis get the benefit of the thousands of dollars spent annually by these people in other sections.

No one minds paying taxes when they are making money, but they do object to paying taxes when their main source of revenue is cut off by those who have been elected to provide that source of revenue.

Think it over, boys, you still have a chance to show your people that what you told them in your campaign speeches was not just a lot of hot air.

TO CATCH DRUNKEN DRIVERS

The Woman's Home Companion, a national magazine designed largely for women readers, has taken up the question of the drunken driver, who terrorizes the roads. It points out that often, caught in the act, and charged with his crime, the driver beats the charge and attempts to explain why.

The magazine points out that the amount of alcohol in the brain determines the degree of intoxication and that this amount can be measured easily and accurately through chemical tests of the suspect's urine and breath. Any policeman, it says, can take a urine specimen and any intelligent police officer can administer a breath test.

The results of such methods are cited in some states. In Indiana, where breath analyzers have been used since 1938, ninety-seven per cent of drivers accused of driving while intoxicated, with chemical evidence against them, were convicted. In Detroit, and other cities, the same result is noted.

It is pointed out, however, that less than a fifth of our cities make use of chemical tests and only thirteen states have passed legislation recognizing the use of these tests. It suggests that interested citizens sponsor a program of public education, dramatizing the dangers of drinking and driving. In view of the number of people killed on the highways, the suggestion is timely and should be heeded.

Congressional Sidelights

—by—
CONGRESSMAN WM. M. COLMER

DOES KOREA MEAN WAR?

The Korean situation is a development of the beginning of World War II. It could easily have been averted if the United States had taken a more active part in the war. The United States, England and the other Western Allies in the Pacific and Russia in the East. This was the case in the Spanish Civil War, and it is likely that the Korean situation will be the same.

A grim comedy played out in the last week as the Korean situation was watched with an interest that was not shared by the rest of the world. The President's dramatic and historic announcement that we could use military force to prevent Formosa and South Korea was met with approval in Congress with jubilation and approval. The extension of the draft law for a year, a week ago, seemed a controversial issue, but the House with but four dissenting votes, a few hours after the President's announcement.

The invasion of South Korea was not unexpected. It had been forecast for months and many had urged the President last year to tell the world we would lend military assistance to South Korea if it should be attacked. But it was announced months ago that both Formosa and Korea were considered essential to US defense.

Now, however, the picture has changed, and little Korea has become a symbol of freedom of the right to live in peace and security in a world surrounded by Communist hordes. If you will look at your map you will see that Korea is a peninsula putting out into the sea of Japan, a hundred miles from Tokyo. It is bounded on the northwest by Manchuria, 125 miles, and its land area is within 100 miles of Russia's Vladivostok. In area it is a third the size of Texas but with more than four times as many people.

Korea is highly strategic militarily from the standpoint of both Russia and Japan. Long ago Korea became to Japan "a dagger pointed at her heart." In fact Russia and Japan fought two wars in the past over control of Korea. So in 1919 Japan annexed the peninsula, and it remained that way until the close of World War II.

Back in 1943 the United States, China and Great Britain pledged at the Cairo Conference that Korea would become independent. And later Russia subscribed to this pledge at Potsdam. But meantime at Yalta in 1945 a secret agreement was made between the United States and Russia to divide Korea into two zones. The United States took the southern half, and Russia took the northern half. The division was made at the 38th parallel, and was supposed to be temporary. The United States and Russia were to work out a plan for a unified Korea.

But the plan was never worked out. Instead, the United States and Russia each set up a government in their respective zones. The United States set up the Republic of Korea, and Russia set up the Democratic People's Republic of Korea. The two governments have been at odds ever since.

Now the UN has recommended the reunification of Korea. The United States and Russia are supposed to support this recommendation. But it is not clear whether they will.

Time and the Soviet Dictatorship will determine the final outcome. The United States and Russia are supposed to support the UN recommendation. But it is not clear whether they will. The United States and Russia are supposed to support the UN recommendation. But it is not clear whether they will.

GAS, OIL TAX TOPS $2,500,000 MARK

Jackson, Miss., June gasoline and fuel oil tax collections topped the $2,500,000 mark for the first time in the state's history, motor vehicle commissioner Griz McCullen reported Monday.

Gas collections amounted to $2,507,744 in June, 1950, they totaled $2,150,441 the tax paid on May 31.

McCullen said he expected July's report to be above $3,000,000. It will reflect heavy buying by commercial users to escape the one-cent a gallon tax increase that went into effect July 1st.

August reports will show the first returns from the tax increase.

There are men who would jump out of their graves if they could see the bathroom suits being worn by their granddaughters in 1950.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics has reported that industrial injuries to 80,000 workers cost them $16,000,000 in pay during the first quarter of 1950. The number of injured was two per cent more than in the last quarter of 1949, but eleven per cent less than in the first three months of that year. Three hundred workers were killed and 4300 permanently injured during the period. The total working time lost was estimated at 1,600,000 man-days.

IUKA TO CELEBRATE NATIONAL AWARD IN CEREMONIES JULY 6th

The spotlight of national attention will focus on the northeast Mississippi town of Iuka, population 1,600, on July 6th when citizens and state-wide leaders join in celebrating the town's recent victory in a national "Build a Better Community" contest.

Iuka recently was awarded the $10,000 sweepstakes prize for the most outstanding job of community development in a national contest sponsored by the National Federation of Women's Clubs.

Credit for the community project goes to the sixteen members of the Twentieth Century Club, an active group of Iuka women who for 15 years have been working to improve the town in which they live.

They will be the center of attention on "Iuka Day" July 6th. Leaders from all over Mississippi, headed by Governor Wright, are expected to join in the celebration.

The Club, which has shown other communities throughout the state what can be done through cooperation, perseverance and hard work, plans to spend the $10,000 winnings on a new Community House for the town.

Iuka received the honor on the basis of a program which included the following projects:

1. Establishment of an eye, ear, nose and throat clinic for children.
2. Conducting a city-wide clean-up campaign.
3. Encouraging of the installation of aerial telephone system.
4. Securing of new playground facilities for city school.
5. Securing of playground equipment for city park.

Organized in 1925, the Club has during the past 15 years raised hundreds of dollars for its projects through holding of pie suppers, dances, concerts, exhibits and various community forms of entertainment.

Situated in the extreme northeast corner of Mississippi, the pleasant, tree-shaded little town of Iuka developed from a former Chickasaw Indian village following location of the old Memphis and Charleston Railroad, now the Memphis branch of the Southern Railroad.

The community grew rapidly. Churches, buildings, a female college, a boys' military academy and a fine hotel were constructed, and Iuka became a prosperous settlement of fine homes.

The War Between the States, however, brought opposing forces to the little town, and in one major engagement there between 1900 and 1500 soldiers were killed or wounded during three skirmishes within the city limits. Practically all the homes and business buildings were transformed into emergency hospitals.

Ante-bellum prosperity did not return to Iuka immediately after the war and for more than a generation the town saw little activity. Today it depends heavily on farming and extensive gravel deposits which are commercially developed. The recent building of Pickwick Dam has also brought new life to the city.

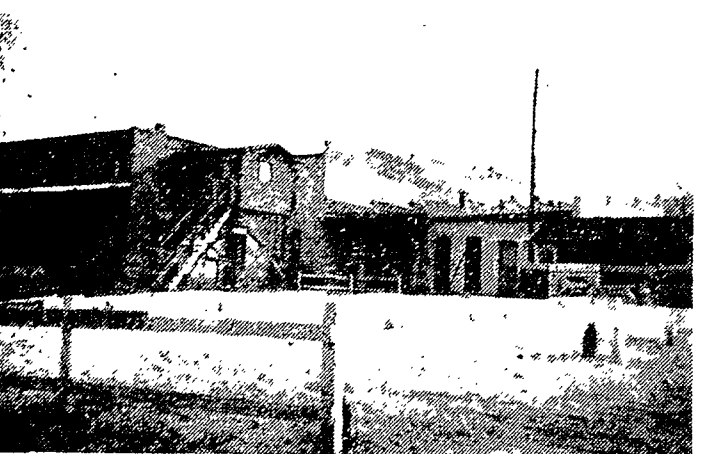

One of its outstanding attractions is the Iuka Mineral Springs, whose medicinal value was first recognized by the Indians, who enclosed the springs with a fence of birch trees. Even today the springs are there.

Twentieth Century Club members take time out from numerous other duties to clean the city park, located in the business district. Members cut shrubs, painted the pavilion and have maintained it throughout the past year.

The club also was instrumental in securing a historical marker for the city, which was unveiled in appropriate ceremonies by Representative Laurel K. Gresham.

By transforming a garbage dump into a city parking lot, members of the club "killed two birds with one stone"—eliminated an unsightly, unsightly dump and provided the city with a needed parking lot.

In any building, the place where the people live is the most important. The club has been instrumental in securing a historical marker for the city, which was unveiled in appropriate ceremonies by Representative Laurel K. Gresham.

"ALWAYS LEAVE THEM LAUGHING" AT HI-WAY DRIVE-IN THEATRE THIS SUNDAY, JULY 9th

Milton Berle, Virginia Mayo Head This Warner Bros Comedy

Promising a new high in screen comedy, songs, dances and general hilarity, "Always Leave Them Laughing," the new Warner Bros picture which brings the fabulous entertainer Milton Berle back to the movies, comes to the Hi-Way Drive-In Theatre on Sunday, July 9th.

The amazing Berle known to millions throughout the country by reason of his stage, night club radio and television entertainment feats, has been eagerly awaited by movie picture fans and now, together with the beautiful Virginia Mayo and Ruth Roman, comes to the Hi-Way Drive-In Theatre on Sunday, July 9th.

"Always Leave Them Laughing," says he, does not mean that he is a comedian. He is a comedian, he is a mimic and a straight man, a borscht-circuit ham and a Broadway cab driver. He laughs, he weeps, he tears up the screen in tremendous bursts of activity that explains why he is known as Public Enemy No. 1.

Berle has been a showman since he first did a Charlie Chaplin imitation at the age of six. He has had tremendous successes in television, vaudeville and night clubs. He has also appeared in a number of motion pictures including "Sun Valley Serenade," "Tall, Dark and Handsome," and "Margin for Error."

In his new film Berle plays a small-time comedian who tries to punch his way to the top through sheer aggressive force. In the process he is afforded full scope for his remarkable range of talent.

Supporting Milton on the distaff side are lovely Virginia Mayo, who sings a hilarious number which Berle wrote with Sammy Cahn, and Ruth Roman, whose beauty and dramatic ability have raised her to stardom in little over a year.

Jerry Wald, responsible for such successes as "Johnny Belinda," "Key Largo" and "Task Force" produced "Always Leave Them Laughing" for Warner Bros.

NO WHEAT QUOTAS

Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan has announced that farmers would be allowed to grow next year's wheat crop free of rigid marketing quotas because the Federal Crop Reporting Board has forecast this year's crop at one-fifth smaller than last year's. Mr. Brannan pointed out that present supplies, while large, were not big enough to warrant marketing controls. He estimated the wheat supply at 1,395,000,000 bushels, which is 18 per cent above the "normal" supply but 2 per cent below the marketing quota level.

"CONSPIRATOR" COMING TO STAR THEATRE NEXT THURS. & FRI., JULY 13-14

Robert Taylor and Elizabeth Taylor Star in Gripping Suspense Drama

"Conspirator" starring Robert Taylor and Elizabeth Taylor, the gripping suspense drama which promises to be the most dramatic picture of the season, comes to the Star Theatre on Thursday and Friday, July 13-14.

Here is a story that is as gripping as any that has ever been told on the screen. It is a story of a young man who is accused of a crime he did not commit. He is accused of the murder of a young woman who was his lover. He is accused of the murder of a young woman who was his lover. He is accused of the murder of a young woman who was his lover.

While "Conspirator" is a gripping suspense drama, it is also a love story. It is a story of a young man who is accused of a crime he did not commit. He is accused of the murder of a young woman who was his lover. He is accused of the murder of a young woman who was his lover.

Producer Arthur Hornblow, Jr. has given the film effective settings, including an exciting sequence set in a London subway, and the director, Victor Saville, is sustained and fast-paced. "Conspirator" will satisfy filmgoers looking for an unusual and suspenseful story, touched with a romantic element.

A-BOMB COULDN'T MOVE MOUNTAIN, SCIENTIST SAYS

New York—An American atomic bomb could blow up only a very small hill, and much less move a mountain, as the Russians have claimed they can do.

It would require hundreds of even thousands of A-bombs to move even a small mountain, a scientist said today. He said that the Russians' claim that they could move mountains with atomic bombs was "a very big lie."

The estimate of what an atom bomb can really do is given by Dr. Frederick Reines, a staff member of the Los Alamos, New Mexico, scientific laboratory, where the making of the bomb is directed. He writes in the June issue of the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists.

"Though the mass of earth which the atomic bomb is capable of moving is large in terms of freight cars," he says, "it is small compared with a mountain."

STATE BUSINESS SHOWS GAIN FOR MONTH

According to the Mississippi Business Review for June, business last month was nine per cent better than for May, 1949, and is expected to stay high for the remainder of the summer. Each of the major indicators had better records than a year earlier. Gas connections and bank deposits had the greatest increase, 17.8 per cent and 12.7 per cent respectively.

General business activity in Mississippi has held up well since January 1. During each of the first five months of 1950, it approached or exceeded 300 per cent of the 1939-1940 averages. Of the sixteen districts in the state, fourteen reported gains, and only two districts reported a decrease in business. Clarksdale reported a 4.4 per cent drop, and the Pascagoula area reported a 2 per cent loss.

REMEMBER WHEN

...three meals took all day

It took a lot of work, wood and worry to keep the old-fashioned kitchen stove at proper cooking temperature. But today, hundreds of thousands of Gulf South housewives get instant, controllable heat from natural gas. They may even spend the afternoon away from home while supper cooks in a modern, automatic, gas range. This is but one of the many household tasks that are made easier and more pleasant through natural gas service.

The companies which make up the natural gas industry take pride in their contributions toward better business and more convenient living for their customers. Their payrolls, royalties and dividend checks, along with many purchases of supplies and equipment from local concerns, place millions of dollars in circulation for all to share. This is private enterprise at work—for the benefit of people in all walks of life.

"Traveler" Is Chrysler's Latest Addition, Featuring Cargo Space and Luxury

The utility of a spacious cargo-carrier and the smartness of a comfortable passenger sedan are combined in the new Traveler, just added to the Chrysler line.

The new model features a unique rear-seat arrangement that permits the rear passenger compartment to be combined with the luggage compartment, providing a large space for carrying cargo. Additional load space is provided by a luggage rack mounted on the roof of the vehicle.

The rear-seat cushion of the Chrysler Traveler is hinged so that it can turn up against the front-seat back. The back cushion of the rear seat is hinged at the bottom, so that it can be swung down on a level with the luggage compartment floor, extending the cargo from the rear of the front seat to the trunk lid.

For greater convenience, two positions are provided to carry the spare tire and wheel. A storage well for the spare is located on the right of the luggage compartment and provision is also made to carry it in a vertical position next to the left rear door.

With its unusual utility features, the new vehicle is expected to be of particular usefulness to farmers, salesmen, merchants, and owners of small businesses who can quickly convert the car from a spacious cargo carrier for work to a comfortable 6-passenger, 4-door sedan for pleasure. It can also be of great value for camping or vacationing, or for family use where occasional light hauling chores are required.

Interior of the Traveler is fashionably upholstered in brown Tolex, a heavy and durable leather-like plastic material that can be easily washed with soap and water. Headlining is of Nylon waffle cord.

The car has an overall length of 207.5 inches on a wheelbase of 125.1 inches. It is powered by the 116-horsepower Chrysler Spifire engine and is equipped with Prestomatic Fluid Drive.

Trifles & Treasures

By DOT SHAFFER

I have been thinking a great deal lately about the things that I have collected over the years. I have a small collection of trifles and treasures, and I have been wondering what I will do with them when I die.

My mother had a small collection of trifles and treasures, and I have been wondering what I will do with them when I die.

You know, my sympathy goes out to the poor reader. All of my M's and W's are quite alike and it must be awfully confusing to him. So please don't blame him for any mistakes. It is just my very difficult penmanship.

Thank you Dot Shaffer for your really nice note. I too, hope my identity will remain secret for more reasons than one. It is fun this way and more important still. I've written myself in to a higher standard now than, perhaps I could live up to. Anyway, what difference does it make what I am called? The column is designed to help, so I am not going to let any personal glory I do it for the sheer love of writing. Thank again, for your interest Dot.

The word "egotism" (which has absolutely nothing to do with the charming girl mentioned above) has come to my attention so frequently about it I feel inclined to write something about it. I surely don't want to be an egotist, but I am not sure I can do it.

Ego tells us that everything we do is done so much better than anyone else can do it.

The egotist is a prisoner of her own conceit. She is her own enemy and sets her own trap.

The egotist exploits herself. Think that no matter what the context it is only a natural thing that she should be the victim.

The egotist is always right in her own opinion. She attempts to do everything—and is usually wrong.

Underneath an inflated ego is found, in most cases, an advanced case of inferiority. But, who is willing to believe this?

Egotism is belligerency. It feels the need of fighting battles when the secret lies in calmly selling oneself. But, belligerency is a form of inferiority in itself. It is the distrust, the fear of oneself.

I had a friend once (we shall call her Sybil) who was perhaps the worst case I ever knew. Somehow I seemed to be O.K. I suppose because I fed her vanity. I was too indolent to argue and just "yes-yessed" her on every score. The whole world was wrong and Sybil stood a monument to herself—gold in 18 karat gold. She had no rivals, no competitors (according to Sybil) and—no friends (according to Sybil). No one was as intelligent, gifted, talented or intellectual as she and on rare occasions when someone did call they were forced helplessly to listen to all of her achievements and accomplishments. It grew very boring. But, if you were to attempt to remind Sybil that God was equally as gracious toward others or tell her the reason she was left so solitary, she would launch into a vituperative onslaught that would leave you quite speechless. So—no one lets the Sybils of the world go on loving themselves and living themselves and tries to help them. The awful injustice they do themselves.

To me, it is almost a sacrifice to have the sanctity of an early summer morning broken by the unholy blaring of a radio. To avoid this, I arise at 4:00 a.m., on some mornings and enjoy the "peace which passeth all understanding."

The person that invites herself is rarely ever welcome.

You will probably hate me for giving you a recipe for cookies in this issue, but I am giving this to your file. It won't a $10,000 prize this past spring at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York.

(Sh-h-h! don't tell her I said so, but I'm hoping Maude will read this and send me a batch. She does so much better than I.)

Here goes:—
Mint Surprise Cookies.
3 cups sifted flour
1 tea. soda
1/2 tea. salt
1 cup butter (or half shortening)
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup firmly packed brn. sugar
2 eggs unbeaten
1 tea. vanilla
1 pkg. (9 oz.) choc. wafers.
27 English walnuts.

Sift flour, soda and salt together. Cream butter and the two sugars. Blend in eggs, water, and vanilla then add dry ingredients. Mix thoroughly and cover, then place in refrigerator for 2 hours. Enclose each wafer in about 1 tb. chilled dough. Place dough on greased baking sheet, about 2 in. apart. Bake at 375 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes. Top each cookie with a half walnut. Yield 4 1/2 dozen cookies.

These are really wonderful, buttery and different.

Let's all pray just a little harder that the O.D.'s won't have to be taken out of math-balls so soon again. We must redouble our faith.

Here's a gal—Jean Dalrymple—that found acting too easy! So, she switched to producing plays, writing her own productions and counseling other producers and sweeps in a $150,000 a year income. Good looking girl, too, despite a tiny tilt of pride to her nose. That, I'm sure, was a mistake of the camera for anyone that gives up acting to go behind the scenes can't have too much conceit.

Girls! here's a new one! Use a discarded tooth brush—dampen it—open seams on a new garment for pressing. An easy, time-saving trick.

A card comes from my friend, Whilmina Cotton, postmarked "Windermere, Westmoreland, England." It makes me long to visit the land of my forefathers.

I am irresistibly inclined towards choosing Mary Canan Bell as our personality of the week. She is a dynamo of vitality. Her very energy must be the reason she retains that slim, trim figure in the size 14 bracket—or is it size 12?

Au revoir

FEDERAL DEFICIT
Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder predicted that the Federal deficit for the fiscal year ending June 30 would not exceed $3,500,000,000. This is contrasted with the Administration's originally estimated deficit of around $5,500,000,000.

STAR-SIGHTING

It has been reported that the 200-inch Hale telescope, of the Palomar observatory, in California, has discovered an exploding star farther away than any yet reported. It took 50,000,000 years for its light to reach the earth. Had the supernova been as close as Vega, a bright star visible to the naked eye, it would have been as bright as the moon, the astronomers assert.
